Student Induction Programme – 2022-2023

About the Institution

Kamaraj College of Engineering and Technology (Autonomous) is a significant addition to the network of educational institutions run for over 125 years by the munificent Mahamai Tharappus of Virudhunagar. Named after Bharat Ratna, Karmaveerar, Sri. K. Kamaraj, a selfless visionary who worked for the upliftment of the downtrodden masses, the institution is a standing testimony to the vision of the philanthropists who sought to provide an excellent technical learning ambiance to fulfill the needs and aspirations of the urban as well as the unreachable rural strata of the society in this part of the world. Ever since its inception in the year 1998, Kamaraj College of Engineering and Technology (Autonomous) has been striding majestically in the realm of technical education. It has successfully stepped into its 22nd year and has grown up and branched out into a massive tree providing 9 U.G. courses and 7 P.G. courses. 7 departments of the college have been approved as Research Centers by Anna University. The college is located in a sprawling area of 48 acres beside Madurai – Virudhunagar NH – 44. The institution is approved by All India Council for Technical Education (AICTE), New Delhi and affiliated to Anna University, Chennai. It is accredited by NAAC with “A” grade. We feel proud to inform that our college has been placed in the rank band of 251-300 in NIRF-2020 Ranking.

About SIP 2022

Student Induction Programme is a multi-pronged approach authorized by AICTE to help the freshers enrolled in engineering institutions across the country to adapt to the ensuing academic engineering ambience enthusiastically.

Staff in charges of the student induction programme work closely with the newly joined students in

1. making them feel comfortable
2. allowing them to explore their academic interests and activities
3. reducing competition and make them work for excellence
4. promoting bonding within them
5. building relations between teachers and students
6. giving a broader view of life and build character.

STUDENT INDUCTION PROGRAMME- 2022

SIP- What & Why Session

1. Objective of the session:

- To make the students understand the importance of the programme and its impact
- To enable them to know the real value of Human and the culture which follows

2. About the Session:

- Student Induction Programme is a mandatory programme which enables students understand the importance of the being connected with people and this programme makes an impact. It really helps students know the real value of Human and the culture which follows. Students in this current scenario should know the real needs of life and the importance of human values that are powerful. They are hidden in the minds of the people and they should be emerged from the young buds in order to make the future pillars patriotic and energetic.
- The Session started with the speech of Dr. N.Sundararajan, ASP/English who focused on the importance of human values with various examples. And his speech was followed by Mr.P.Vairamani, AP/English who insisted on the importance of education that cultivates the minds of the students.

3. Team Members Details

The following are the team of faculty members involved in the session:

1.	Dr.N.Sundadarajan	HoD/English
2.	Mr.P.Vairamani	AP/English

UNIVERSAL HUMAN VALUES

ASPIRATIONS AND CONCERNS

Human Aspirations: Our basic aspirations are happiness (mutual fulfilment) and prosperity (mutual prosperity). Happiness is ensured by the relationships with other human beings and prosperity is ensured by working on physical facilities.

Happiness and Prosperity

[Text Wrapping Break]

Happiness may be defined as being in harmony/ synergy in the states/ situations that we live in. Happiness is being in a state of liking. Unhappiness is a lack of this synergy or harmony.

Life Pizza Goal Ladder

HEALTH

Health was earlier said to be the ability of the body functioning well. However, as time evolved, the definition of health also evolved. It cannot be stressed enough that health is the primary thing after which everything else follows. When you maintain good health, everything else falls into place. Similarly, maintaining good health is dependent on a lot of factors. It ranges from the air you breathe to the type of people you choose to spend your time with. Health has a lot of components that carry equal importance. If even one of them is missing, a person cannot be completely healthy.

Constituents of Good Health

First, we have our physical health. This means being fit physically and in the absence of any kind of disease or illness. When you have good physical health, you will have a longer life span. One may maintain their physical health by having a balanced diet. Do not miss out on the essential nutrients; take each of them in appropriate quantities. Secondly, you must exercise daily. It may be for ten minutes only but never miss it. It will help your body maintain physical fitness. Moreover, do not consume junk food all the time. Do not smoke or drink as it has serious harmful consequences. Lastly, try to take adequate sleep regularly instead of using your phone. Next, we talk about our mental health. Mental health refers to the psychological and emotional well-being of a person. The mental health of a person impacts their feelings and way of handling situations. We must maintain our mental health by being positive and meditating. Subsequently, social health and cognitive health are equally important for the overall well-being of a person. A person can maintain their social health when they effectively communicate well with others. Moreover, when a person is friendly and attends social gatherings, he will definitely have good social health. Similarly, our cognitive health refers to performing mental processes effectively. To do that well, one must always eat healthily and play brain games like Chess, puzzles and more to sharpen the brain. Physical Health Alone is Not Everything There is this stigma that surrounds mental health. People do not take mental illnesses seriously. To be completely fit, one must also be mentally fit. When people completely discredit mental illnesses, it creates a negative impact. For instance, you never tell a person with cancer to get over it and that it's all in their head in comparison to someone dealing with depression. Similarly, we should treat mental health the same as physical health. Parents always take care of their children's physical needs. They feed them with nutritious foods and always dress up their wounds immediately. However, they fail to notice the deteriorating mental health of their child. Mostly so, because they do not give it that much importance. It is due to a lack of awareness amongst people. Even amongst adults, you never know what a person is going through mentally.

Thus, we need to be able to recognize the signs of mental illnesses. A laughing person does not equal a happy person. We must not consider mental illnesses as a taboo and give it the attention it deserves to save people's lives.

UNDERSTANDING HARMONY IN NATURE

Nature as Collection of Units

Nature is the collection of all the units – the air, soil, water, plants, trees, animals, birds, other human beings and even things that are at a distant from us like the sun, the moon, the other planets, etc.

Classification of Units into Four Orders

Although the units are innumerable, they can all be classified into just four orders:

1. Physical order – this includes units like air, water, metal and so on.
2. Bio order – this includes grass, plants, trees, etc.
3. Animal order – this includes animals and birds.
4. Human order – this has human being only.

Harmony among the Four Orders

There is mutual fulfilment among the first three orders in nature. The soil-plant interaction is an example of mutual fulfilment between the physical order and the bio order. Animals and birds (units of the animal order) depend on plants (units of the bio order) for their food. At the same time, animals and birds help to spread the seeds of plants from one place to the other. They protect plants from harmful insects and pests. Similarly, the units of physical order, like air and water, are essential for animals to survive. In turn, animals enrich the soil – their dung and their dead bodies act as very good manure which makes the soil fertile. This is amply visible in the forests. These three orders are enriching for the human being too. This we can see from our day to day life. Now, is the human being fulfilling for the other three orders? This is a big question. Human being is not only unfulfilling for the other three orders, rather it is dominating and exploiting them, to the extent of global warming and climate change. Once human beings understand the mutual fulfilment among the four orders, they can be fulfilling for all the orders.

Interconnectedness, Self-regulation and Mutual Fulfilment among the Four Orders of Nature

With the above discussion, we can conclude that there is interconnectedness and mutual fulfilment among the four orders in nature. One can also see that there is self-regulation in nature. In a forest, the proportion of soil, plants and animals of various species is self-regulated. It never happens that the lions eat up all the deer or the deer eat up all the grasses or that the plants grow to the extent that there is no space for deer or that there is lack of soil for new plants and so on. The forest does not need to be regulated by human being to be in harmony. With right understanding only, human being will also be self-organised, in harmony within and participate in the harmony in the larger order.

Abundance in Nature

Nature is organised in such a manner that the physical facility required for any order is available in abundance. The quantity of soil is far more than that of plants and trees. And both of these are available in far greater quantities as compared to the quantity of animals and birds. Human beings require all these three orders to survive, and the quantity of all these three orders together is far more than the quantity of human beings.

Key Takeaways

Nature is the collection of units. It can be classified into four orders, (physical, bio, animal and human). There is a relationship of mutual fulfilment amongst these. It is already going on in the first three orders. Human being also has the natural acceptance for mutual fulfilment. All that we need to do is to understand it and live accordingly.

RELATIONSHIP

Relationship is between the self (I) and the other self (I). There are nine feelings (values), or expectation of feelings (values), in relationship: of oneself (I) for the other self (I). These feelings (values) can be recognized: they are definite (9 Feelings), their fulfilment and evaluation leads to mutual happiness.

- TRUST
- RESPECT
- AFFECTION
- CARE
- GUIDANCE
- REVERENCE
- GLORY
- GRATITUDE
- LOVE

Trust or vishwas is the foundational value in relationship. “To be assured that each human being inherently wants oneself and the other to be happy and prosperous” is known as trust. Having faith in others and believing them. Respect means individuality. The sense of individuality is prime object. This is the first basic step towards respect (sammana). Once we realized that we are individual then only we can see our self different from others. In other words, respect means right evaluation, to be evaluated as I am. Affection is the feeling of being related to the other. The feeling of affection comes only if trust and respect are already ensured.

The feeling of care is the feeling to nurture and protect the body of our relative. Or in other words a state of mind in which one is troubled; worry, anxiety, or concern is called care. Care is level of active concern, or lack of negligence, towards avoidance of possible dangers, mistakes, pitfalls, and risks, demanded of a party as a duty or legal obligation. The feeling of ensuring right understanding and feelings in the other (my relative) is called guidance. The feeling of acceptance of excellence in the other is called reverence. We understand that we aspire for continuous happiness and to realize it, we have to understand harmony at all the levels of our living, and live accordingly.

Glory is the feeling for someone who has made efforts for excellence. Gratitude is the feeling of acceptance for those who have made efforts for my excellence. Gratitude is an emotion that occurs after people receive help, depending on how they interpret the situation. Love is the principle which creates and sustains human relations with dignity and depth. Love means I can be kind, caring and understanding. Love is the basis for a belief in equality and good will toward all.

Justice is the recognition of values (the definite feelings) in relationship, their fulfilment, the right evaluation of the fulfilment resulting in mutual happiness. Once we have recognized the existence of human relationship, we are subsequently able to identify the feelings (values). Thus there are four elements of ensuring values in relationship: recognition of values, fulfilment, evaluation and mutual happiness ensured. When all the four are ensured justice is ensured.

UNIVERSAL HUMAN VALUES -SELF MANAGEMENT–PEER PRESSURE

Self-management, which is also referred to as “self-control” or “self-regulation,” is the ability to regulate one's emotions, thoughts, and behaviours effectively in different situations in a productive way. Self-management skills include setting a personal goal to ensure that you stay focused on your long-term objective and not just what is happening at the moment. The purpose of setting personal goals is to have some measure against which you can assess themselves. Self-management skills boost their productivity and performance at work, which helps in achieving professional goals. It is a soft skill that increases your employability and gives you more control over your career path. Students are motivated for are the biggest self-management skills such as effective time management and prioritization, confident decision-making, graceful stress management, and strong problem solving .students are encouraged for team building activities.

Self-awareness lies at the heart of the ability to master one-self.Developing self-control and clarifying priorities and goals help individual creates direction in their own lives.Managing time and stress make it possible for individuals to adapt to and organize surroundings.It gives us the power to influence outcomes. It helps us to become better decision-makers It gives us more self-confidence so, as a result, we communicate with clarity and intention. It allows us to understand things from multiple perspectives. It frees us from our assumptions and biases. It helps us build better relationships. It gives us a emotions. It decreases stress. It makes us happier. Students are motivated for self-management and self-awareness related activities are conducted by forming student peer groups.

Peer pressure or influence is when you do something because you want to feel accepted and valued by your friends. Peer influence can be positive or negative. Coping well with peer influence is about getting the right balance between being yourself and fitting in with your group. Peer Relationship Problems occur when students have trouble cooperating with others and have trouble making friends. Peer relationship problems can lead to friendships with peers who make poor choices, an inability to maintain quality friendships, being bullied, and later development of internalizing concerns.

Peer pressure is commonly thought of in a negative light, but in reality, it's not always a bad thing. Sometimes peer pressure is used to positively influence people, such as when teens work toward common goals such as doing well in study place or helping out in their community. There are also many positive things about peer pressure, it can really be a good force in the life of your teenager and their friends.

Bad peer pressure is being talked into doing something that you didn't want to do. Bad peer pressure is usually the result of wanting to be accepted by your peers. It can lead to trouble with the law, with their parents and it can affect your health.

Positive peer pressure is when someone's peers influence them to do something positive or growth building. Positive peer pressure activities are done in class room to enhance their positive peer pressure among the students such as to form a study groups, encouraging others creating innovative ideas and developing a new domain areas.

INTRODUCTION ABOUT SELF CONFIDENCE

Self-management is your ability to successfully regulate thoughts, emotions and behaviour to stay flexible and positive. The components of self-management are Self confidence, self esteem, self regulations, self control, self commitment and self awareness. Self-confidence is an attitude about your skills and abilities. The ultimate source of self confidence is and can only be internal. It means you accept and trust yourself and have a sense of control in your life. You know your strengths and weakness well, and have a positive view of yourself. You set realistic expectations and goals, communicate assertively, and can handle criticism. Self-confidence is undoubtedly the key to success. It makes a person feel independent, optimistic, and positive in life. With all these characteristics, a person can easily deal with difficult situations in life. Self-confidence helps an individual to successfully face day-to-day challenges and demands.

Outcomes:

- Students came to know about their confidence level from the work that they have completed and not completed so far in their life.
- Student's confidence level was increased by reducing the stage fear.
- Students could understand the difference between confidence and over confidence.
- Students could understand the difference between anger and aggression.
- Students could understand that they are the reason for their behaviour, happiness, anger, work, fear, etc.,

HARMONY IN SOCIETY

To lead a perennially happy and prosperous life is ultimate goal. To realize this human being have four objectives –Samadhan(right understanding) in self, Samridhi (prosperity) in family ,Abay (trust) in society,Saha-Astitwa (co-existence) with rest of the nature.

Right understanding is the need of every human being. When one is not having the right understanding, the person remains disturbed and they start disturbing others. If we have a single goal in life, our mind and efforts concentrated in single direction only and move faster towards our goal. One has to be at pace with society and with nature for a successful life. Samadhan represent the right understanding in every individual. The balance is much needed to live with harmony in family and society. Conflicts are the part of life. One cannot imagine problem free world but Samadhan helps in living peacefully because right way will right always.

Prosperity is the need of every family implying that the family should be able to identify its needs and be able to produce more than its needs. Trust is the fundamental expectation in every relation in the society. When every person feels related to everyone else on the basis of trust, it forms an indivisible society.

Co-existence with the rest of nature means ensuring a relation of mutual fulfilment among four orders of nature. Coexistence means learning to live together, to accept diversity and implies a positive relationship to the other. Our identities are defined in relation to the other. When relationships are affirmative and equal it enhances dignity and freedom and independence. When relations are negative and destructive this undermines human dignity and our own self-worth. This applies to personal, group and interstate relationships.

The respect towards mankind and nature is must to establish the universal order. This phenomenon elaborate that all the people on this earth should be covered by one law and follow the same set of values. The universal values should be the governing principle of this world. Every individual should feel good and secured. Equality and justice should prevail.

Students should be able to understand five dimensions of human society, the dimensions are education, health, production, exchange and justice. After studying harmony in society, students should be able to understand 1.Akhand Samaj – Undivided Society 2.Sarvabhaum Vyawastha – Universal Order 3.From Family to World Family.

Some basic questions are asked to the students to understand the harmonious society for self-realization. Our natural acceptance feels that we want to be in harmony with everyone and want to make everyone happy. We also want to have a harmonious society.
